orson (version; düsseldorf) and new.com recently have been sitting together and enjoying music in the impressive „studio 111a” in düsseldorf. it's the place where orson does his production: music and art design. in his set for comfortnoise podcast 017-0311, orson presents at first some of his most inspiring tracks from fields like beatless sounds, reggae-dub and house music. „it is not only about the current but also about the past”, as he says. the following part consequently contains a selection of previously unreleased dubplates including collaborations with mala, benny ill, hops and lucas croon. look out for an expertly diversified and meditative session!
